A State to be eligible for reimbursement of expenditure needs to fulfil the following criteria:—

(ii) Deployment of para-military forces in the State for counter-insurgency operations.

(iii) Declaration of part or whole of the State as disturbed area under the Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act, 1958.

The items of expenditure that will be considered for reimbursement are the following:—

(i) Expenditure incurred on items like purchase of new vehicles, bullet proofing of vehicles, purchase of weapons, communication equipment, bullet proof jackets and other protective gear, etc.

(ii) Additional expenditure in connection with capital works on jails and detention centres.

(iii) Expenditure on special training provided to State Police and Prison administration personnel.

(iv) Expenditure incurred on raising India Reserve Battalions.

(v) Expenditure incurred by the State Government in making necessary provision for Central Para Military Forces/Army deployment.

(vi) Ex-gratia grants and gratuitous relief to the victims of extremist violence.

(vii) Expenditure incurred on transporting arrested militants to jails outside the State or those arrested from outside the State and brought to the State by special flights, etc.

As per preliminary scrutiny and subject to audit, the following amounts are reimbursable:—

State	Approximate amount (for the period from 1.4.1995 to 31.3.1998) (Rs. in crores)
Assam	79.00
Manipur	36.00
Nagaland	22.00
Tripura	28.00

No amount has been reimbursed so far.

(c) Reports indicate that there are camps in some of our neighbouring countries, which are being used by North-East insurgent groups for safe havens, sanctuary and training purposes. The matter has been taken up with these countries and they have assured that they will not allow any one to use their territory for activities prejudicial to the interests of India.
